Parting.

BY LANDON.

Her disposition was so sweet,
So different from mine;
For I was like the rugged oak,
She like the clinging vine.

I did not know how strong a hold
She had upon my heart,
Until upon that sad, sad day
I knew that we must part.

And not like lovers must we part
Who hope for future bliss,
And shal their vows with faith and love
With true love's burning kiss.

No, we must part as strangers part
And ever strangers be;
I know not that 'twas hard for her
But bitter 'twas for me.

The lingering look of long farewell
I never shall forget;
I pressed her hand, then turned away—
My star of life was set.

Miscellaneous.

Action of a Boy which gave Future Promise of the Man.

About thirty yeart ago, said Judge P. I stepped into a book store in Cincinnati, in search of some books that I wanted. While there, a little ragged boy, not over 12 years of age, came in and inquired for a geography.

"Plenty of them," was the salesmans reply.

"How much do they cost?"

"One dollar, my lad."

"I did not know they were so much." He turned to go out, and even opened the door, but closed it again and came back.

"I have got sixty-one cents," said he; "could you let me have the geography, and wait a little while for the rest of the money?"

How eagerly his little bright eyes looked for an answer! and how he seemed to shrink within his ragged clothes when the man, not very kindly, told him he could not! The disappointed little fellow looked up to me, with a very poor attempt at a smile, and left the store. I followed him, and overtook him.

"And what now?" I asked.

"Try another place, sir."

"Shall I go, too, and see how you succeed?"

"Oh, yes. if you like," said he in surprise.

Four different stores I entered with him, and each time he was refused.

"Will you try again?" I asked.

"Yes, sir, I shall try them all, or I should not know whether I could get one."

We entered the fifth store, and the little fellow walked up manfully, and told the gentleman just what he wanted, and how much money he had.

"You want the book very much?" said the proprietor.

"Yes, sir, very much."

"Why do you want it so very, very much?"

"To study, sir. I can't go to school, but I study when I can at home. All the boys have got one, and they will get ahead of me. Besides, my father was a sailor, and I want to learn of the places where he used to go."

"Does he go to these places now?" asked the proprietor.

"He is dead," said the boy, softly. Then he added, after a while, "I'm going to be a sailor, too."

"Are you, though?" asked the gentle man, raising his everbrows curiously.

"Yes, sir, if I live."

"Well, my lad, I will tell you what I will do; I will let you have a new geography, and you may pay the remainder of the money when you can, or I will let you have one that is not new for fifty cents."

"Are the leaves all in it, and just like the others, only not new?"

"Yes, just like the new ones."

"It will do just as well, then, and I shall have eleven cents left toward buying some other book. I am glad they did not let me have one at any of the other places."

The bookseller looked up inquiringly, and I told him what I had seen of the little fellow. He was much pleased, and when he brought the book along, I saw a nice, new pencil and some clean, white paper in it.

"A present, my lad, for your perseverance. Always have courage like that and you will make your mark," said the bookseller.

"Thank you, sir, you are so very good."

"What is your name?"

"William Haverley, sir."

"Do you want any more books?" I now asked him.

"More than I can ever get," he replied glancing at the books that filled the shelves.

I gave him a bank note. "It will buy some for you," I said.

Tears of joy came into his eyes.

"Can I buy what I want with it?"

"Yes, my lad, anything."

"Then I will buy a book for mother,' said he; "I thank you very much, and some day I hope I can pay you back."

He wanted my name, and I gave it to him. Then I left him standing by the counter so happy that I almost envied him, and many years passed before I saw him again.

Last year I went to Europe on one of the finest vessels that ever ploughed the waters of the Atlantic. We had very beautiful weather until very near the end of the voyage; then came a most terrible storm that would have sunk all on board had it not been for the captain. Every spar was laid low, the rudder was almost useless, and a great leak had shown itself, threatening to fill the ship. The crew were all strong, willing men, and the mates were practical seamen of the first-class; but after pumping for one whole night, and the water still gaining upon them, they gave up in despair, and prepared to take the boats, though they might have known no small boat could ride such a sea. The captain, who had been below with his charts, now came up: he saw how matters stood, and, with a voice that I heard distinctly above the roar of the tempest, ordered every man to his post.

It was suprising to see those men bow before the strong will of their captain, and hurry back to the pumps. The captain, then started below to examine the leak. As he passed me I asked him if there was any hope. He looked at me, and then at the other passengers, who had crowded up to hear the reply, and said, rebukingly:

"Yes, sir, there is hope as long as one inch of this deck remains above water; when I see none of it, then I shall abandon the vessel, and not before, nor one of my crew, sir. Everything shall be done to save it, and if we fail it will not be from inaction. Bear a hand, every one of you, at the pumps."

Thrice during the day did we despair; but the Captain's dauntless courage, perseverance, and powerful will mastered every man on board, and we went to work again.

"I will land you safely at the dock in Liverpool," said he, "if you will be men."

And he did land us safely; but the vessel sunk moored to the dock. The Captain stood on the deck of the sinking vessel, receiving she thanks and the blessings of the passengers as they passed down the gang plank. I was the last to leave. As I passed he grasped my hand said:

"Judge P., do you recognize me?"

I told him that I was not aware that I ever saw him until I stepped aboard his ship.

"Do you remember the boy in Cincinnati?"

"Very well, sir; William Haverley."

"I am he," said he. "God bless you!"

Charity Repaid with Robbery—A Strange Story.

Mr. A. B. Morris is a lawyer, and his place of residence is Watertown, N. Y. He came to the city about ten days ago, on his way to the South, and having some business to transact here, put up at the Park Hotel. He made an agreement with a friend to go to the Union Square Theatre. He had agreed with his friend to meet him at the corner of Broadway and Canal street at 6:30 o'clock. Mr. Morris arrived at the place of meeting rather early, and presently he was accosted by a young woman who was very neatly though poorly dressed, and of a most respectable appearance.

She began by saying, "Are you ready to go with me now, sir?" and then in apparent confusion begged his pardon for speaking to him. She said she had taken him for a gentleman she had seen in the Dollar store.

She then went on to tell him that she was in great distress. "I have a dying mother and a sister in the last stage of consumption," she said, "and I am unable to pay the rent of our room, and the landlord threatens to turn us out this very night if we don't pay." "Here," said Mr. Morris, "she began to cry and great tears ran down her cheeks; there was no humbug there, for I saw them." He asked her how much she owed, and she told him $2. "But I don't want you to give me the money here, sir," she said, "I want you to see for yourself that I am not deceiving you. I never asked for charity before, but when the panic came I was discharged, along with several other girls, from the Dollar Store, and since then have been unable to get any work. I live only a few blocks away from here, and if you can spare the time, I would like to have you see my mother and sister, and the condition which we are in."

"And, like a fool," said Mr. Morris, 'I looked at my watch, and, seeing that I had yet half an hour to spare, I went with her. We went east from Canal street, and turned into a side street, and after a while we came to the house and ascended two or three steps, and entered a narrow hallway. There the woman opened a door on the right and asked me to walk in and wait until she could advise her mother that some one was coming to see her. The room was warm and comfortable; a fire was burning in the grate, and at the further end there was a lounge. In front of the fire and nearer to it than the lounge, was a cottage bedstead. 'You will have to sit on the bed sir,' said the woman, 'as there are no chairs. I will take off my shawl and go at once to my mother.' I had been warming my hands at the fire," continued Mr. Morris, "and at the woman's suggestion sat dow on the bed, about two feet from the foot, the woman standing in front of me, with her shawl in her hands. Hardly had I seated myself when she sprang upon me like a tigress, throwing the shawl over my head. At the same moment I felt my feet grasped from under the bed. I then felt that I had to struggle for my life.

"I had $300 in money in my pocket-book, a draft for $150, and a $500 watch in my vest pocket. I could not see as my head was completely enveloped in the shawl, but I felt a strong pull at my watch chain, and afterward I felt a hand in my pocket where my money was. I made a tremendous effort, and succeeded in throwing the woman over the foot of the bed. I then sprang up and freed my feet and rushed to the further corner of the room. There the woman again attacked me, but I knocked her down, and then, taking a large pearl-handled, silver-mounted knife from my pocket, I swore that if anybody attacked me again I would put a bullet through him. The darkness of the room no doubt prevented them from seeing that the formidable revolver was only a pocket knife, and that was what saved me, I supposed.

"I then went to the door, and to my astonishment found it locked, bolted and barred. I drew the bolt and took down the bar, but could not unlock the door, as the key was gone. Finally, I broke off the catch of the lock with the bar, and found myself at liberty. I rushed out through the hall into the street, and did not stop until I found a policeman. Then a reaction came on, and I felt utterly weak and prostrate, and no wonder, for I am firmly persuaded that I had only escaped death by a mere chance, and besides, the desperate struggle I had just passed through had weakened me considerably. I afterward went back over the ground with a policeman, but was unable to identify the house, though," said he, "it is in either Elm or Centre street. Being a stranger in the city I had not noticed the locality when I went with the woman, and I was too much agitated to do so at the time of my escape. After it was all over I examined my pockets and found that I had lost nothing. My watch was saved from the fact that the chain was very strong, and was fastened to my vest with a snap."—New York Times.

My Experience as a Local Editor.

My friend Random the editor of the Whistle,* was compelled to visit the city, the other day, and I volunteered my services during his absence.

Random gave me a very queer look and remarked, "Thank you, come and take charge at once."

"All right," I replied, "I'll remain at my post until you return."

Random started for the train but suddenly stopped short and shouted:

"Hello!"

"Hello, yourself!" said I.

"Make a local of John Smith's death!" roared Random; "say anything you please—good citizen—loss to the community, and all that kind of thing"

"Hold on a moment!" I began, but Random was already streaking for the depot at a 2:40 rate.

I walked up stairs and entered the Whistle office with all the self-posession of a veteran editor. The devil was there, grinning prodigiously, but I sternly ordered him to leave instanter. "Git up and git," was the way he translated it to the printers in the next room.

Sinking into the easy chair, I proceeded to write a local notice of John Smith, deceased. I was a little bothered at the outset by not knowing what particular Smith it was, but such a petty obstacle as this did not dampen my ardor in the least. I decided to write generalities only, without committing myself to anything defiinite. But I warmed with my work, and soon threw all my enthusiasm into it. In less than an hour-and-a-half I had procured the following:

"THE LATE JOHN SMITH, ESQ.—Our citizens will be deeply pained to learn that John Smith, Esq., is dead. Alas! Will the voracious jaws of the silent tomb never cease to wag? We think not. But to return to our muttons as the French say. The late John Smith was a son of old man Smith. His was an illustrious family. One of his ancestors was made famous by Pocahontas. The tricky squaw went back on him, however, and married another John has always been a promising member of the family. He has acchieved distinction in different callings. If our own recolection serves us right he has been prominent in the pulpit, at the bar, in the legislature, and in various business enterprises. He has always been a great traveler. (We ascertained this fact by reading the hotel arrivals in our old exchanges.) But, to come to the point. Death is always in our midst. It is the worm in the bud. In short, the death of John Smith leaves a vacant chair in his household, and a void in the community. Requiescat in pace!"

I read this over several times and then handed it to the foreman. Visitors soon came crowding into the office, and I didn't have time to read proof or do anything else.

The next morning I was eager to read The Whistle. Fortunately the carrier brought it before breakfast, but my rage and mortification nearly suffocated me, when my eyes rested upon the following:

"THE LATE JOHN SMITH'S EGGS.—Our citizens will be deftly panicked to learn that John Smith, Esq., is dead. Atlas! Will the veracious job of the silent tomb never grease its rag? We blink not. Butter returns to mutton, as the French say. The late John was one of old man Smith. His was an illdigested family. One of his ancestors was made famous by Pocahontas. The tricky squaw went back on him, however, and mauled another. John has always been a promising member of the family. He has achieved distinction in various callings. If our recolection serves us aright, he has been prominent in the pulpit, at the bar, in the legislature, and in various bulletine enterprises. He has always been a great traveler. (We assertained this fact from our exchanges. The hotel arrivals are at Reading.) But to come to the point. Death is always in our middles. In shouting the death of John Smith leaves a vacant chair in his household, and a vial in this community. Reckless cats pace!"

This awful mess completely prostrated me. I could not bear the thought of meeting Random. I didn't. I took the 8:30 train, and am now traveling for my health. AMMI BADD.

EDUCATED AND INTELLIGENT LABOR.

Labor, manual and intellectual labor, is the source of wealth to those who use it. The trees of the forest no doubt grow without the aid of man; the rivers flow without his guidance, and the sunshine which is essential to animal and vegetable life, is independent of his labor; but it is by the aid of labor and art that they are brought into use in Agricultural and Mechanical pursuits, and it is by the exchanges of the products of the various modifications of manual and intellectual labor that society is produced with the rich abundance and diversity which constitute the rational enjoyments of mankind and makes the security of the social state the perfection of human happiness. It is in the very nature of society that the Arts and Sciences grow up together; that the Manufacturer, the Agriculturist, the Mechanic and the Man of Science find in each other's pursuit the helpmate of his own—that their interests are mutual and their profits identical.

We say that the wealth of a nation consists in the amount and product of its labor, but we do not mean that it is merely the labor of the hands. Without the head to direct, plan and arrange, the hands can do nothing right. The superiority of the head over the hand is the very first principle of civilization, and the degree of intelligence which is required in a particular pursuit or profession, has at all times been the measure of consideration in which it has been held. Manual and intellectual labor cannot be separated. They are brothers and like the Siamese Twins, are bound by ligaments, which if severed, will cause the decline and death of both. The engineer with his mathematical instruments must precede the laborer with his axe and shovel. The intellect is the soul—the immortal part that must ever rule and control the mere physical energies of man; its genius must be the ruling spirit in the formation and growth of philosophy, the sciences and the arts. Human labor guided by the judgment and reason of the head, must accomplish all that it professes—must subdue all that obstructs its path—must conquer all that defies its power, and that nation and that people which use its intellect in the promotion of its government, in the labor of its people, in the progress of its arts and sciences and in the improvement of the gifts of nature that lay around in rich profusion, will be the people who shall know no rival and shall dictate laws and government to the rest of the world.

If he who tills the soil would do so with success, he must consult the man of science who has analyzed its parts, and who alone can instruct him how and where his labor must be conducted. The man who is bronzed with daily toil, and the pale faced student of Chemistry, are equally dependant on each other, the one for food and raiment, the other for the knowledge how to produce it. Of what use would be the fleece of the sheep, or the cotton of the field without the loom of the Manufacturer and the genius of the Mechanic? Between the Agriculturist and the Mechanic of our common country there is a covenant so advantageous to both that it cannot be broken. The advancement of one interest is necessarily followed up by a corresponding progress of the other; the mill wheel of the Manufacturers district can only revolve with profit as the raw material is furnished by the agricultural supplies.

Congress the past week after passing the bill to increase the greenback issue and the national bank circulation, transacted considerable other business. The House Committee on Territories agreed to report a bill for the admission of New Mexico into the United States. The Centennial Committee reported a bill appropriating $3,000,000 for the Centennial exhibition. The bill for the free exchange of newspapers between publishers and the free transmission of newspapers by mail within the county of their publication was passed.

Ex-Governor HENRY T. CLARK, of Edgecomb county, died on the 14th inst. aged about 70 years. He became governor of the State on the death of Gov. ELLIS in 1861. Being speaker of the Senate, the provisions of the then existing constution made him the Governor.

"WHAT HAS HE DONE?"

Once in a while we hear the question asked, "What has Mr. COBB done in Congress?" It is a proper question, and to those whose memories are treacherous and others who have failed to keep posted it is a question very naturally suggesting itself. We propose briefly answering it.

In the first place, as a Republican, he has always voted right. His position on votes have never been equivocal. He has always advocated and sustained the principles of his party. This is conceded by all.

Then as a Representative he has faithfully served the people of his District and State. In looking after the home interests of those he has so long represented he has not been idle. He has made it his business, and he has succeeded, in establishing post offices, post routes and increased mail facilities. It is well known that the North Carolina coast has always been a dangerous one to the mercantile marines—that the latter have dreaded and feared it. Through the indefatigable efforts of Mr. COBB, Light Houses have been erected at Hatteras, Oregon Inlet and Whales Head, thus establishing a continuous light rendering the coast comparatively safe. Through his persistent efforts there will be established along the coast a number of Life Saving Stations, which to the mariner will be of inestimable service. During the successful movement to reduce the duties on sugar, coffee and salt he took a prominent part. He has secured appropriations for the survey and improvement of a number of the rivers and harbors in the District, and is preparing the way for other and larger appropriations for navigation improvements in which our people are deeply interested. He was specially active in the establishment of the Southern Claims Commission, and it was through a bill he introduced that an extension in time, and an enlargement of the powers of the Commission were obtained. As a Member of the Committee on Southern War Claims he has done efficient service, and as Chairman of the Committee on Freedmen's Affairs he has accomplished for the colored people so much that they ought not—nay will not forget him.

This is but a brief reference to a few facts in reply to the question heading our article. Hereafter let no one assert that Mr. COBB hasn't done anything when the record shows that he has done so much.

A STRONG ENDORSEMENT.

The following letter is in reply to one written by our townsman Mr. CALE. The writer, GEORGE T. DOWNING is one of the most intelligent and influential colored men of the country. His endorsement of Mr. COBB and the desire he expresses that he "be sent back to the next Congress" will have weight with the colored people of this District:

WASHINGTON, D. C., April. 13, 1874.

HUGH CALE, Esq.: Dear sir—I was glad to recieve a letter from you. We need the educating influence of laws designed to respect our rights, because a majority of the American people have been trained to disregard them; hence an earnest struggle to have a supplementary Civil Rights bill passed.

It is gratifying to us to observe the daily increasing disposition to respect men, regardless of their color, according to their merit. We can demand consideration only as we shall merit the same. This is, in fact, all we demand. We are gratified to refer in this connection to your representative Mr. Cobb. We are glad to have him here, and hope that you will send him to the next Congress; it is his due, he has been faithful to the cause of justice, he has been consistent, he has stood by the rights of his colored constituents and he has also been mindfull of the general interest of the State. It would be better if the South would send more of her sons here like Mr. Cobb; then would be hastened that happy day when a mutual interest will be intelligently considered by her white and colored citizens in common; when they shall be found struggling together with no hindering prejudices or thought of conflicting interests. Mr. Cobb's experience is worth something to your State. He has influence and can do more for the State than any unexperienced representative. Herein Massachusetts excels. She returns her worthy representatives that she may enjoy the benefit of their experience.

Yours &c.,
GEO. T. DOWNING.

Col. JOHN H. WHEELER. formerly Public Treasurer of this State, has in preparation and will soon issue a "Manual of North Carolina." This is a much needed work and will contain a large amount of valuable information. The following are some of its contents, viz: a map of each county, corrected by most recent surveys; each Congressional and Senatorial district; a calendar showing, chronologically, dates of prominent events in our history; population of each county from 1790 to 1870; executive officers of the United States from 1790 to 1874; a diagram showing movement of population; the area of each State in square miles, and population to each square mile; the electoral vote of North Carolina at each Presidential election, except the first, when she did not vote; Constitution of North Carolina, with all the late amendments; executive officers from 1663 to 1874; judiciary, Speakers of Legislature from 1777 to 1873; finances of the State; a table showing number of acres in each county, and value of land per acre; density of population in each county; date of formation and origin of name; boundaries and list of members to latest date, to which is added a full index, greatly enhancing its value.

A successor to CHAS. SUMNER has been chosen at last. On the 17th inst. on the 33rd ballot, the Massachusetts Legislature elected Hon. W. B. WASHBURNE, now Governor of the State, to fill Mr. SUMNER's unexpired term. He is a man of integrity and ability.

There is an unprecedented rise in the Mississippi river, inundating the country and destroying an immense amount of property.

A FEW FIGURES.

It is an old but very true saying that "figures do not lie." These apply to politics as well as to all things else. They show exactly the strength and popularity of public men, and for this purpose we here propose calling attention to a few of them.

In 1872 the politcal contest in this State and District was a very warm one. Party feeling ran high and the candidate who could obtain more than his party vote was obliged to do so because of his personal popularity.

Then what are the facts shown by these figures in this Congressional District? The majority of Gov. CALDWELL over Judge MERRIMAN was 1,205, but Mr. COBB's majority over Col. CARTER was 1429.

Take the Senatorial District. GRANDY's majority over YATES was 208; COBB's majority over CARTER was 334. In the Second District the majority of REPASS over LATHAM was 339. COBB's majority over CARTER was 522.

The "figures" thus show that Mr. COBB was stronger in 1872 than any other candidate on the ticket with him. He ran far ahead of his party ticket. We have the best of reasons for declaring that we believe that he is much stronger in the District now than he was then. He will poll a still larger vote.

CORRESPONDENCE

[For the "North Carolinian."]

North Carolina Women During the Revolution. No. 2.

MRS. STEELE.

On the 1st of February, 1781, there had been severe skirmishing between the forces of Lord Cornwallis and General Green, and a number of the patriot troops were killed. On that day Cornwallis crossed the Catawaba, and Gen. Greene arrived at Salisbury. He was the guest of Mrs. Steele. He arrived there, having been exposed to a chilling rain all day, as he himself said, "fatigued, hungry, alone and penniless" while his supper was being prepared. Dr. Read, the Surgeon, who had charge of the sick and wounded, visited Gen. Greene, and they had quite a long conversation. The General expressed himself freely to the Doctor; spoke of the weariness and destitution of the army, his own poverty and want of resources. Mrs. Steele while making preparations for the meal, overheard these remarks, and the fire of patriotism was augmented by that deep sympathy which woman's heart ever feels for distress. Hardly had the General seated himself at the well filled board before a cheerful fire, when Mrs. Steele entered and reminded her distinguished guest that she had overheard his remarks to Dr. Read. She drew forth from under her apron two small bags filled with specie, her savings for years. "Take these," said she, "you need them, and I can do without them." He accepted the present. "Never," said his biographer, "did relief come at a more needy moment," and that night he resumed his march with a heart lightened by woman's kindness and her devotion to the cause of her country.

On the wall of the room hung a portrait of George III, which had been sent as a present from England to one of Mrs. Steele's relatives. Filled with the mournful recollection of the suffering of his countrymen, and the innocent blood which had that day been shed by the myrmidons of power, Gen. Greene took it from the wall and wrote on the back of it "O, George, hide thy self and mourn," and hung it up again with the face to the wall. This picture was in possession of Gov. Swain at the time of his death, and it retains very plainly the inscription of Gen. Greene.

This noble act of Mrs. Steele, and the noble sentiments which inspired it, were common to the women of that day. They contributed in every way they could to the common cause; they joined in Campbell's beautiful sentiment:

"Oh, heaven, they said, our bleeding country save!
Is there no hand on high to shield the brave?
What though destruction sweep these lovely plains!
Rise fellow men! our country yet remains.
By that dear name, go, wave the sword on high,
And swear for her to live! for her to die."

MRS. FORNEY.

An anecdote illustrating the simplicity of manners and industrious domestic habit of the women of the Revolution, may be related of the wife of General Peter Forney, a man quite distinguished for his patriotism, talent and bravery.

A gentleman passing by "Mount Welcome," the residence of Gen. Forney, wished to see, or had a message for the General. Before reaching the gate he passed the cow pen, where he observed a white woman, and some servants, milking the cows. He inquired of the white woman if Gen. Forney was at home. She informed him that he was not. "Then," replied the stranger "I would like to see his lady, and will be much obliged, if you will step to the house and ask her to come to the gate." The lady without any embarrasment replied, "You now have the pleasure of seeing Mrs. Forney." The stranger made an apology, which was politely accepted, delivered his message and rode off. Such habits of the mothers of the Revolution may account for the prosperity of the country, and its ability to feed and clothe the army. S.

PARADE.—HON. C. L. COBB.—REDUCING THE FORCE OF THE DEPARTMENT, ETC.

FORTRES MONROE, VA., April 12th, 1874.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

The annual parade of the Fort Monroe Fire Department took place on the forenoon of the 11th, and as always is the case, "Old Chief" Baulch had a fine day. Promptly at 10 o'clock the line was formed inside the Fort, and the command "march" was given, and halted on the parade ground where the Department was inspected by Maj. Gen'l W. F. Barry, Commandant. After which they re-formed and marched in review in splendid order; accompanied by the Artillery School Band, twenty pieces. The Department certainly made a fine display, and old Chief Baulch was in all his "glory" for the "masheens" were so bright that a horse-fly would have slipped up by trying to light on either of them. The Chief is the right man in the right place.

We were very unexpectedly called away to Norfolk on Saturday, the 11th and on our return home we were in company with the gentlemanly Dep Collector of Customs, Chas. E. Gettslitch, Esq., on board the boat for Baltimore, when who should come on board but the Hon. C. L. Cobb, the able and efficient Representative from your district. We were indeed glad to meet him. Though young in years he is old in experience, and besides a noble standard bearer in the cause of Republican Institutions. We sincerely hope it will be the pleasure of the good people of the first District of the "Old North State" to return him to the next Congress. We know somewhat of his doings in Washington, and as yet we have found no fault nad doubt, if the truth be told, that anyone can do so.

The forces in different Departments here have been materially reduced during the last three months, and quite a number of laborers and mechanics are out of employment in this section. We hope on the 1st of July, work will be fully resumed when all who wish may be employed. Yours truly, &c.,

REP.

Obituary.

DIED.—In Elizabeth City, N. C., on the 8th day of November, 1873, after a painful and lingering illness, Mrs. KATE D. MATHEWS, wife of John M. Mathews.

Mrs. Mathews was born in Baltimore, Md., October 11th, 1833, and was a daughter of Col. Wm. G. Cook, one of the "old defenders of Baltimore." Shortly after the removal of the family to Elizabeth City, N. C., in 1844, she became a confirmed member of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and to the hour of her death showed the fullness of her faith by her purity, and beautifully consistent life.

Among strangers, she won the affection of all, and had, as was her due, the deep respect of all who ever came in contact with her.

Mrs. Mathews was married, Dec. 1st, 1853, and for twenty years, her devotion to her family duties won for her the name of a model wife and mother. Like disappearing stars our loved ones go away from our sight. The star of our hopes our ambition, our prayers, whose light ever shines before us, suddenly pales in the firmament of our hearts, and its place is left, empty, cold and dark. A mother's steady, soft and earnest light, that beams through wants and sorrows; that quick light which kept our feet from stumbling in dark and treacherous ways; that light, so pure, so mild, so constant and so firm, shining upon us from loving eyes, and gently persuading us to grace and goodness, forever sleeping in our souls, illuminating our paths: Has it gone out forever? No! It shines where there is no night, no darkness, forever and forever

She has left a devoted husband, and six children, but, they should not mourn "as those without hope," for she has met at the very gates of Heaven that angel child which preceeded her and

A guardian angel, ever dear
A mother's spirit, ever near,
She pleads in Heaven the earnest prayer
That those she loved may meet her there.

"She is not dead, but sleepeth,"
"Not lost; but gone before,"
Our loving mother liveth,
Yes she liveth evermore.

To the bosom of her Saviour,
She was borne by angel bands,
By faith she saw her Saviour,
With wide extended hands.

He was waiting at the river side,
To welcome her across,
And safely did she stem the tide,
While clinging to the cross,

She has crossed the river dreadful,
And is now among the blest,
Yes, to Jesus, she is wedded,
And with him will ever rest."

SUCCESS BASSED UPON MERIT.

It is a subject of general remark among both wholesale and retail druggists, that no medicine introduced to the American public has ever gained such a popularity and met with so large a sale in all parts of the land, in the same length of time, as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This cannot depend upon its having been more largely advertised than any other medicine, as such is not the case. The correct explanation, we think, is found in the fact that this medicine produces the most wonderful and perfect cures of very bad cases of bronchial, throat and lung disease, is undoubtedly the most perfect and efficient remedy for all kinds of coughs that has ever been introduced to the public, and at the same time possesses the greatest of blood-purifying and strengthening properties that medical science has been able to produce, thus rendering it a sovereign remedy not only in the cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and Coughs, but also for all diseases of the liver and blood, as scrofulous diseases, blotches, rough skin, pimples, black specks and discoloration. It has therefore a wide range of application and usefulness, and it not only gives the most perfect satisfaction to all who use it, but far exceeds expectations of the most sanguine, thus eliciting the loudest praise, and making permanent lying advertising mediums of all who use it. For these reasons it is that there is not perhaps a druggist in all the vast domain of this Continent, who tries to please his customers and supply their wants, that does not keep and sell large quantities of this most valuable medicine.

JESUP, Iowa, May 5th, 1873.
Dr. R. V. PIERCE:

Dear Sir—We take pleasure in saying that your Medicines have sold entirely beyond our expectations. We regard them as the best medicines extant, and hear them spoken of in the highest terms of praise.

R. L. SMITH & Co.

Funny, Isn't it.

On Sunday in Portsmouth the bar rooms are closed, and the barber shops are open. In Norfolk the bar rooms are open and the barber shops closed. Norfolk has to come over to Portsmouth to be shaved, and Portsmouth has to come over to Norfolk to smile. So we have a reciprocity treaty. Good enough—Norfolk Day Book.

The floods are out again in the Lower Mississippi. Crevasses are reported at various important points, threatening the richest cotton lands an the river, in the neighborhood of the Tallahatchie and Yazoo valleys, as well as the cane lands below New Orleans. The principal crevasse in the Mississippi is said to have been started by Arkansians, who crossed over by night and cut the levee in order to save themselves from inundation. This crevesse is now quite beyond control. There seems to be no possible way of preventing these disastrous floods. The volume of water is at certain seasons so vast that no system of levees can be expected always to sontrol it. People who live in Mississippi bottoms may as well put their houses on stilts and count upon having their lands pretty regularly submerged, their only consolation being that the process is very enriching and insures good crops, other things being equal.

Robert Carpenter, a Georgia Post master, has been arrested on a charge of murder. Walter L. Cole, a prominent merchant of Blackshear, was found dead near his store, his throat cut and his back full of buckshot. Every gun in the village was seized, including that of Carpenter, who was uncle of the murdered man. The stock of Carpenter's gun was broken and the barrel covered with blood. A pair of pants were found, spattered with blood, and a pair of shoes bloody about the heels. Carpenter killed Cole for his money.

When the celebrated French chemist Orfila was on one occasion a witness at a trial for poisoning, he was asked by the President if he could state the quantity of arsnic requisite to kill a fly. "Certainly M. le President." replied the expert. "but I must know beforehand the age of the fly, its sex, its temperament, its condition and habit of body, whether married or single, widow or maiden, widower or bachelor."

Nilsson is conscious of her own personal charms. Recently she met a young lady at the Hub, who remarked: "Miss Nilsson, I am delighted to have the pleasure of seeing you; I have been told so often by my friends that I resemble you." Whereupon the singer scanned her for a moment, and coolly replied, "I prefer my own face.

B. F. Johnson, a telegraph operator at Brownsville, Tenn., was shot and fatally wounded on Sunday night week, in a bangio at that place, by Sam Oldham, a class leader in the Methodist Church there, who, being caught in the bagnio by Johnson, shot him to prevent exposure. Oldham fled and at last accounts had not been captured.

THOUSANDS OF PROMISING YOUTHS, of both sexes, go down to untimely graves, from general debility and weakness, who might be saved by fortifying their systems with Iron. The Peruvian Syrup is an Iron Tonic prepared expressively to supply this vitalizing element, and is the only preparation of iron that will assimilate at onne with the blood.

William Morton, a subordinate officer in the late Arctic Expedition, says in a communication to the Geographical Society: "The result of my third voyage is that I am more than ever convinced of the practicability and possibility of reaching the Pole, and I firmly believe it will yet be done."

The corner-stone of the U. S. Court House and Postoffice in Raleigh will be laid on July 4th with imposing ceremonies. John Nichols, Esq., Grand Master of the Masonic fraternity of the State, has been applied to conduct the ceremonies.

A horticulturist at Augusta, Ga., states that since 1858 he has tried 15 varieties of the Eucalyptus and although he succeeded in getting a few specimens to grow 10 to 15 feet high, and in keeping them uninjured for three years, he finally lost them all during a cold snap in March.

Cremation, as a matter of ceremony, is entitled to consideration. An enterprising undertaker in Chicago having figured the expense down, thinks he can cremate for $2 a head.

Using a canceled postage stamp caused a man to be fined $500 and costs in the United States District Court the other day in Utica.

PAIN-KILLER!

1840. 1874.

TIME TESTS THE MERITS OF ALL THINGS.

Thirty Years is certainly long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the Pain Killer is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparelleled popularity it has attained. It is a sure and effective remedy. It is sold in almost every country in the world, and it needs only to be known to be prized, and its reputation as a Medicine of Great Virtue, is fully and permanently established. It is the great Family Medicine of the age. Taken internally, it cures Dysentery, Cholera, Diarrhoea, Cramp and Pain in the Stomach, Bowell Complaint, Painters' Colic, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Sudden Colds, Sore Throat and Coughs. Taken Externally, it cures Bruises, Boils, Felons, Cuts, Burns, Scalds, Old Sores and Sprains, Swellings of the Joints, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Chapped Hands, Frost Bitsen Feet, &c.

Pain is supposed to be the lot of us poor mortals, as inevitable as death and liable at any time to come upon us. Therefore, it is important that remedial agents should be at hand to be used on emergency, when we are made to feel the excruciating agony of pain, or the depressing influences of disease. Such a remedial exists in Perry Davis' "Pain-Killer," the fame of which has extended over all the earth. Amid the eternal ices of the Polar regions, or beneath the intolerable and burning suns of the tropics its virtues are known and appreciated. And by it suffering humanity has found relief from many of its ills. The effect of the Pain-Killer upon the patient, when taken internally in cases of Cough, Cold, Bowel Complain, Cholera, Dysentery, and other affections of the system, has been truly wonderful, and has won for it a name among medical preparations that can never be forgotten. Its success in removing pain, as an external remedy, in case of Burns, Bruises, Sores and Sprains, Cuts, Stings of Insects, &c., and other causes of suffering has secured for it the most prominent position among the medicines of the day. Beware of counterfeits and worthless imitations. Call for Perry Davis' Vgetable Pain-Killer, and take no other.

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN AN IRON TONIC SYRUP

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Local and Personal.

☞ Judge Albertson will hold Court at Hertford, Perquimans county, next week.

☞ Collector McNamara publishes notice of property seized for violations of the U. S. Internal Revenue laws.

☞ Correspondents must not complain when our crowded columns oblige us to condense their favors.

☞ The Teachers of the county can be supplied with a copy of the late School Law by calling at this office.

☞ The telegraph from Cape Henry along our coast to Cape Hatteras has been completed and is in operation.

☞ The catch of shad in the Albemarle Sound this year has been very large. The herring catch is also heavy.

☞ The latest quotations are: at New York, Gold 114; Cotton 18c. Corn from 84 to 88c. At Norfolk, Cotton 16¼ c. No change in corn.

☞ We learn that a "Grange" has been formed at Hertford and that the members are having a "good time" at their meetings.

☞ We are requested to announce that the Rev. Cha's Meads will preach in the Church near the Poor House on Saturday and Sunday the 3 & 4th days of May.

☞ How true it is that fact stands between many people like a double woven screen; the threads which makes the bright pattern on one side form the dark back ground on the other.

☞ The Federal Court is in session, His Honor Judge Brooks presiding, R. C. Badger Esq., District Attorney, arrived last evening. There are no very important cases for trial, but there are a number of strangers in town.

☞ The local politics in our City is certainly in a quiet condition. The era of good feeling has again returned and all good citizens rejoice. Indeed the time has come when instead of the man seeking the office the latter has sought the man.

☞ The letter of "Alpha" is respectfully declined. It takes two to make a quarrel—please remember that. Take our advice and subside. Never forget the fact that it takes two to get a quarrel fairly going, so hold your tongue the moment a storm is brewing, and then you will always remain without the pale of discord.

☞ Thos. H. Gilliam Esq. of Hertford, has handed us a list of subscribers in Perquimans and Chowan Counties, made some forty years ago to the Edenton and Norfolk Railroad. They were more liberal then than now, many having made a subscription of $10,000. Among the 47 names on the list there remains but two who are now living, our friends Francis Nixon Esq., and James Norcom, Jr.

☞ We believe in charity. We have no objection to shake out from the leanness of our pocketbook a contribution, now and then, for that object. But we want to know that the frugality of our munificence is not unworthily bestowed, and that it does not encourage that sort of improvidence that spends for whiskey instead of bread. It is needless to elaborate. Those for whom this explanation is made now understand us.

☞ The proceedings of the Republican nominating Convention for the Municipal offices of Elizabeth City will be found in another column The utmost harmony and good feeling prevailed and the ticket presented, we are glad to know, meets with general favor. And we can say further that we know that not a man upon it sought the position—that the nominations were tendered, almost forced upon the gentlemen selected. It now remains for the people to decide. If the action of the Committee is endorsed at the ballot box we are certain that the best interests of the city will be looked after and protected.

☞ We sympathize always with a brother in distress. An occasion for the exercise of this feeling occurred recently. It was on one of the days when the wind was holding carnival on our streets. A countryman, from a neighboring county we presume—had come to town and treated himself to a new hat. He came proudly parading up the street when all at once, a gust of wind blew off his beautiful tile and landed it in a pool of dirty water. As a couple of ladies were passing at that moment the young man could not, even were he addicted to profane language, indulge his feelings, but from his very looks we are inclined to believe that if there had been a small boy present who was acquainted with the business, he would have given him a job in that line, and would have presented him with the soiled hat as a consideration for his services and felt under many obligations to him besides!

☞ Our Devil says that he has deliberately come to the conclusion that whenever a small boy is seen coming out of the house with one hand on his eyes and the other over the basement of his pants that he and the old gentleman has had a slight misunderstanding. As to whether the imp "knows how it is himself" we do not express our opinion.

☞ We were amused the other day, we own up to it. Coming up Road street we observed an individual whose locomotion indicated a tired condition. He had evidently been imbibing something stronger than coffee. As he came to where the big watch is hung out for a sign, it attracted his attention and "all to once" he stopped, pulled out a great silver bull's eye he had in his pocket and deliberately set it by the sign! He then started on and was heard to mutter, "By doggee I've got the right time now."

☞ We clip the following notice of our former young townsman from the Raleigh News. He is at home on a visit.

W. C Brooks, Esq., the popular and efficient deputy clerk of the United States Circuit Court in this city, left yesterday for Elizabeth City to lend his valuable aid in the running of the United States District Court which commences in that place to-morrow. Mr. Brooks will be absent from the city about three weeks, during which time his vacancy in the "chair" will be supplied doubtless by one competent to the task.

☞ We have received a copy of the able speech of our old friend Hon. John B. Packer, of Pennsylvania, delivered in Congress on the 17th of February, on the bill to provide for the distribution of the public documents printed by the authority of Congress, and of seeds furnished by the Agricultural Department, for the exchange of newspapers between publishers, and for free transmission of weekly newspapers by mail and within the county where published. Mr. Packer takes the true ground, that there should be no tax on the diffusion of knowledge.

☞ It will be gratifying to the most of our readers to learn that arrangements are being effected, and are about completed so far as the Company is concerned, to go on with the railroad enterprise. The panic of last fall, operating so disastrously upon all the business interests of the country and especially upon railroad projects, not only disarranged the plans then consummated but suspended all practical operations. The active members of the company, however, were not idle. By indefatigable perseverance, hard as the times are, parties have been found able to furnish the "sinews of war," and willing to do so, providing the people along the line show a disposition to cooperate with them in the way of local subscriptions to the capital stock of the company. Our people are poor, it is true, but then a large subscription is not asked. Without a railroad we will remain poor. Our only salvation is quicker and better transportation—increased facilities for travel and getting to the markets of the world. To secure this all can subscribe something The representatives of the railroad company are now here. They desire to know what may be relied on. They are men of character and influence, and they mean business. They fully appreciate our impoverished condition and hence neither ask nor expect impossibilities. But they well understand too, the immense advantage a railroad will be to us—that it will build us up, develope all our boundless but now latent resources, and improve the whole country. Hence when they ask us to do something to help ourselves the request is not an unreasonable one.

Local Briefs—The new proprietors of the "Albemarle House" are sparing no pains to give satisfaction. We are glad to see them so liberally patronized. Dentistry.

Dr W. N. Berkley, Surgeon and Mechanical Dentist, formerly of New Orleans, but now of Edenton, is stopping at the Albemarle House in this city and will remain a few days. All work done in the best and most approved style and warranted to give satisfaction.

A Philadelphia youth was recently married to a girl who had refused him eighteen times. He wishes now he hadn't asked her but seventeen.

Thirty pupils of a ladies' school in New York have made arrangements to go on an European tour, under charge of their teachers, this summer.

SUSTAIN THE SINKING SYSTEM.—The flashes of excitement produced by the stimulants in ordinary use, are followed by a reaction that is always more or or less injurious. Just as the darkness, illuminated for a moment by the lightning's glare, becomes apparently blacker than ever after the flash is over, so the mental gloom and physical debility that vanish temporarily under the influence of a dram, return with a ten-fold intensity when the first transient effect ceases. Yet physicans habitually prescribe the liquors of commerce for patients suffering from bodily weakness and mental despondency. The true remedy in such cases is a pure stimulant medicated with the finest tonics and alternatives which the vegetable kingdom affords, and Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the only preparation at present known which thoroughly meets the emergency. The effect of this popular restorative is continuous. Each dose taken invigorates the vital energies and the brain, and its prolonged use will unquestionably cure any case of debility, hypachondria or mental torpidity that does not arise from organic causes beyond the reach of medicine. It is, in the strictest sense of the word, an invigorating and regulating cordial. If the nerves are tremulous and relaxed it braces them; if the bowels are constipated, it relieves them; if the liver is torpid, it promotes activity in that organ; if the mind is gloomy it clears away the cloads; if the appetite is poor and digestion a slow and painful operation, it creates a relish for food, and anables the stomach to convert it into healthful aliment. Moreover, it is specific for a large number of ailments, some of which are particularly prevalent in the damp and chilly weather which we so often experience in mid winter. Among these may be mentioned rhematism, chills and fever, and all the morbid conditions of the digestive and secretive organs superinduced by sudden changes of temperature and the inclemencies of the season.

To Young Farmers.

Start with a small farm, with no more land than can be thoroughly tilled and managed—a few acres well cultivated are better than many just skimmed over. Besides, small farms are better for the whole community on general principles; as they make more compact and sociable neighborhoods, and will secure better roads, schools and churches, besides encouraging better mechantic shops near by—thus, tools can be quickly repaired.

Plough deep and fine, that the soil may be well pulverized to a good depth, in order that the roots of all crops and trees may be able easily and richly to appropriate all the plant-food from the ground, which they need for thrifty growth. Deep ploughing also does very much to prevent the bad effects of drouth, by allowing the moisture to rise from below, when ground becomes dry and warm on the surface; it is alike beneficial in cases of excess of rain, by allowing the surplus water more readily to sink out of the way.

To effect the same ends still better, and to have your lands warm, dry and porous, drain them well with surface drains, where that will answer, and with under drains where they are needed; the improvement of yield, as well as of the expenses in a very short time, besides making the farm more healthy for both plants and human occupants; while often, in many localities, these under drains furnish abundance of good stock water, where none was known before; and then it is more pleasant tilling the soil. Orchards, particularly, are greatly benefitted by deep, thorough drainage, both in the health of the trees, and the improved-size and flavor of the fruit.

The young farmer should consider well and distinctly what he wants to do; ascertain what his land and location are best adapted to; and when those things are settled, seek the best information and counsel within his reach. And above all, he should learn to observe everything connected with his business—with the growth of plants or animals—observe nature and results—acquire the habit of noticing things—events and accidents, and from all learn lessons of usefullness for yearly application. A vast number of useful things have been learned by farmers when they least expect it, merely from accidentally noticing some event, or indication, or unusual results; quite a chapter of such results of accidents could be called to mind, from the experience of others and myself. Then, great benefit will be found in keeping accounts carefully and systematic, with everything on the farm, as faithfully as the merchant keeps accounts—debt and credit with every customer; so the farmer should keep a careful account with every field, crop, animal and other subject of value on the farm—charging each with everything which it costs—in labor, money, feed, seed or manure—and credit it with all it produces or returns, whether sold or consumed at home. No part of my own farming operations ever afford so much of pleasure, for the time it took, as this keeping careful and regular accounts with everything; it enabled me to know with certainty what was made or lost—whether the farm was paying—and what brace of the business paid the best, by which future operations were guided.

Many farmers seem to think that they will get rich by leaving ploughs, harrows, and larger impliments scattered about in the fields and yards, to rust and rot; the waste and loss in this manner is greater than the expense of well housing them, oiling them, and thus keeping them in order for next season's work; and not lose the best working days in repairing or running after new ones. And for the same reason that tools should be kept in order and free from rust, the land should be kept in good condition and free from weeds; it is much easier to keep them down and destroy them when they are young, than when they have grown stiff and tall; it is easier to kill a kitten than a catamount.—Maryland Farmer.

How Animals Feed

All herbivorous animals that do not chew the cud consume their food very slowly; those which ruminate perform the first process of mastication in haste, and the second occupies much time. The horse requires ample leisure, and unless this is afforded he cannot eat enough to support himself in good condition. According to experiments carefully conducted in France, a horse of moderate size occupied an hour and a quater in eating 11 pounds of dry hay, which he consumed in 65 separate portions. A large horse eat the same quantity of hay in an hour in 60 portions, another in an hour and 12 minutes in 95 portions; a third, an hour and a half, in 120 portions; a fourth, a very small horse, an hour and three quarters, in 150 portions. In general, then, a horse must be allowed 45 seconds to masticate one ounce of hay, to do which he will make 60 to 80 strokes of the teeth per minute. When the supply of saliva is deficient a greater amount of movement of the jaws is required. Ruminating animals merely crush their food before swallowing, but the act of rumination occupies one-fourth of their time, or six hours out of the 24. The process of rumination being carried on while the animal is resting, and the more gathering of the feed being performed very quickly, the cow or ox is spared much of the otherwise necessary exercise in feeding, which would waste the muscular system. But if the pasture is scanty, or the food is hard and rough, requiring much extra preliminary chewing, all this advantage is lost, and the time added to the usual period of feeding is withdrawn either from that which should be devoted to rumination or rest. Knowledge of these facts will probably throw light upon many mysterious failures of condition in horses, oxen or cows, and may help stock-keepers to feed with better results than frequently occur. The saliva of animals plays a very important part in the digestion of their food having the property of converting starch into dextrine (a substance which is soluble in water, which starch is not) and sugar. The saliva is largely secreeted during the process of mastication, and if this process is hurried too rapidly the supply of saliva with which the food is insufficient to reduce the starch to a soluble condition, and a portion of food equivolent to the unchanged starch is lost and wasted. In almost every analysis of excrement of farm animals starch is found, and it is very probable that this loss of nutrious substance is owing very often to insufficient time taken in feeding. Ample leisure is therefore needed, not only that sufficient food be consumed, but also that which is consumed may be completely digested.

Mr. J. T. Clarke, the richest man in Australia, di d last January, aged 73 years. He owned more than one hundred thousand acres of land, and was worth between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000.

An honest employment is the best inheritance that can fall to any one.

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE — FREE FROM — ALCOHOL
PURELY — CALIFORNIA
DR. WALKER'S
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use VINEGAR BITTERS as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases,—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Jaundice.—In all cases of jaundice, rest assured that your liver is not doing its work. The only sensible treatment is to promote the secretion of the bile and favor its removal. For this purpose use VINEGAR BITTERS.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalists and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility and durability of soil, no section can compete.

A railroad will soon be built to Norfolk, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A farm of 700 acres in Pasquotank County 10 miles from town, with fine two story dwelling, large barn, kitchen and other outhouses; as also, two other dwellings. barns and other houses at different points on the farm. This farm is all cleared but 150 acres, is free from swamps and other waste land, and is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, &c. The price is 14,000 in easy payments.

A farm of 500 acres in Pasquotank County, 6 miles from town, and one mile from the River, with good new dwelling built in modern style, barn, stables, four tenant houses scattered over the farm, fine water, &c. This farm is situated on the most public road in the County, has 300 acres cleared and balance in splendid pine, oak, cypress, maple, sweet gum, and other valuable timber. It is peculiarly adapted to raising cotton, $50 per acre, net, having been realized on a part of it this year in cotton. It also grows corn, wheat, oats, and other crops well. Price $12,000 in easy payments.

Two tracts of land lying on Pasquotank River four miles from town, neatly cleared, and in good cultivation, one contains 1,000 acres, and the other 600 acres. Both have good fisheries, and the land is equal to any in this section. Price $20.00 per acre in easy payments. Also several smaller tracts for sale, ranging from 50 to 100 acres each, at low prices, and on easy terms.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Three farms—one of 100 acres, one of 80 acres and one of 190 acres, within two miles of town, mostly cleared land. Price $20 per acre for each tract—payments on easy terms. Also many other valuable farms and town lots too numerous to mention.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1874—SEVENTH YEAR.

THE ALDINE.

An illustrated Monthly Journal, universally admitted to be the Handsomest Periodical in the world. An Representative and Champion of American Taste,

Not for Sale in Book or News Stores.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, but none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals, is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of the ALDINE will be most appreciated after it has been bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quality of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost and then, there are the chromo besides.

ART DEPARTMENT, 1874.

The illustrations of THE ALDINE have won a world wide reputation, and in the art centres of Europe it is an admitted fact that its wood cuts are examples of the highest perfection ever attained. The common prejudice in favor of "steel plates," is rapidly yielding to a more educated and discriminating taste which recognizes the advantages of superior artistic quality with greater facilities of production. The wood-cuts of THE ALDINE, possess all the delicacy and elaborate finish of the most costly steel plate, while they afford a better rendering of the artist's original.

To fully realize the wonderful work which THE ALDINE is doing for the cause of art culture in America, it is only necessary to consider the cost to the people of any other decent representations of the productions of great painters.

In addition to designs by the members of the National Academy, and other noted American artists, THE ALDINE will reproduce examples of the best foreign masters, selected with a view to the highest artistic success and greatest general interest. Thus the subscriber to THE ALDINE will, at the trifling cost, enjoy in his own home, the pleasures and refining influences of true art.

The quarterly tinted plates for 1874 will be by Thos. Morgan and J. D. Woodward.

The Christmas issue for 1874 will contain special designs appropriate to the season, by our best artists, and will surpass in attractiveness any of its predecessors.

Premium for 1874.

Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for the year 1874 will receive a pair of chromos. The original pictures were painted in oil for the publishers of THE ALDINE, by Thos. Moran, whose great Colorado picture was purchased by Congress for ten dollars. The subjects were chosen to represent "The East" and "The West." One is a view of the White Mountains New Hampshire; the other gives the Cliffs of Green River, Wyoming, Territory. The difference in the nature of the scenes themselves is a pleasing contrast, and affords a good display of the artist's scope and coloring. The chromos are each worked from thirty distinct plates, and are in size (12 x 16) and appearance exact the similies of the originals. The presentation of a worthy example of America's greatest landscape painter to the subscribers of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly happy idea, and its successful realization is attested by the following testimonial, over the signature of Mr. Moran himself.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20, 1873.

MESSRS. JAMES SUTTON & Co.

Gentlemen:—I am delighted with the proofs in color of your chromos. They are wonderfully successful representations by mechanical process of the original paintings.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) THOS. MORAN.

These chromos are in every sense American. They are by an original American process, with material manufacture, from designs of American scenery by an American Art Journal. If no better because of all this, they will certainly possess an interest no foreign production can inspire and neither are they any worse if by reason of peculiar facilties of production they cost the publishers only a trifle, while equal in every respect to other chromos that are sold singly for double the subscription of THE ALDINE. Persons of taste will prize these pictures for themselves—not for the price they did or did not cost, and will appreciate the enterprize that renders their distribution possible.

If any subscriber should indicate a preference for a figure subject, the publishers will send "Thoughts of Home," a new and beautiful chromo, 14 x 20 inches representing a little Italian exile whose speaking eyes betray the longings of his heart.

TERMS.

$5 per annum, in advance, with Or Chromo free.

50 cents extra the chromos will be sent mounted, varnished and prepaid by mail.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtained only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rate; cash for subscriditions must be sent to the publishers diecct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the facsimile signature of JAMES SUTTON & Co.

Canvassers Wanted.

THE GREAT BALOON.

You've heard about the great balloon,
In which Professor Wise
Proposed to go to Europe,
By sailing through the skies,
He proposed to show the people
A quicker way for trips
Than ever had been known before,
By sailing o'er in ships.

Well everything seemed lovely
Upon that Autumn day,
When they began to pump in gas
To bear the barge away.
They pumped and pumped with all their power,
And things seemed nigh adjusted—
When there came an awful crash,
And the mighth bubble busted.

It's ever thus in human life,
Go whereso'er we may,
The darkest night will oft succeed
The brightest, sunniest day,
There are exceptions to this rule,
Where all the days are fair,—
For one, go down to JOHNSON'S HALL,
You'll find things all right there.

We've thought it best in cases like this,
This little fact to mention;
You need not ferr that they'll inflate
Beyond their power of retention.
And when they undertake to go
Their geer's so well adjusted,
They'll move straigh forward to their work,
With no fear of being "busted."
